100,000 New Recruits Flock To General Mola's Northern Army

Correspondent Studies Public Feeling in Fascist Three-Quarters of Country

(Editor's note: Through three provinces of northwestern Spain, covering the cities of Burgos, Zamora, Salamanca, Avila, Segovia, and Villagasin, H. R. Knickerbocker motored for two days, collecting first-hand war news and studying public feeling in the Fascist three quarters of the country. Everywhere enthusiasm for the rebel cause is strong, he found, as reflected in enlistment of 100,000 recruits and donations of millions of dollars.)

NORTHERN SPANISH REBEL ARMY HEADQUARTERS, BURGOS, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Another one thousand dead were reported in Spain's civil war today, while upwards of 100,000 new recruits flocked to Gen. Emilio Mola's northern army, which has now joined hands with Gen. Francisco Franco's forces.

To effect this juncture and cut off Madrid from access to Portugal meant most severe fighting.

Gen. Queipo de Llano, the commander at Seville, reports that in the battle of Merida the Reds lost 950 dead and a great number of wounded and prisoners.

Another 50 Reds were reported killed by the white garrison at Orense in the Asturias.

Meanwhile, a small tight kernel of Reds, still holding out in the center of Badajoz, recently reported taken by the whites, seemed hopeless.

The men of General Francisco Franco's foreign legion are fighting stripped to the waist in the scorching sun of the Spanish August.

From Palencia comes another item in the list of murders, in which the conservative Times of London puts the dead at 150 a day.

In Reinos, the Reds took by surprise nineteen civil guards commanded by a lieutenant, headed them inside the town council assembly here, and mowed them down with machine guns.

In Corcora, the Reds took prisoner Don Justo Sanjurjo, son of the Spanish white general, who was recently killed. They took young Sanjurjo to a hospital in Reinos when he asked for the last sacrament. When the priest arrived, the Reds, according to the whites' accounts, shot the priest and Sanjurjo in the sacramental act.

Astor Case To Be Fought To Conclusion

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 14.—The Mary Astor child custody case is to be reopened and fought to the conclusion.

That was the announcement today by Joseph Anderson, chief counsel for Dr. Franklin Thorpe, who divorced Mary Astor in 1935, and obtained custody of their four-year-old daughter, Marylyn. Anderson's announcement was made this morning after he had analyzed the "victory" statement of Miss Astor's lawyer, Roland Woolley. Woolley handed the statement to the press a moment after Superior Judge Goodwin J. Knight, announced a "divided custody" settlement of Miss Astor's fight to gain control of her daughter.

Anderson's bombshell was hurled less than 12 hours after news came that the couple had agreed to a peace treaty under which Miss Astor was to keep the child nine months of the year, and Dr. Thorpe, three months of the year.

Overheated Tire Fires A Truck at Eddington

EDDINGTON, Aug. 14.—A small delivery truck caught fire here yesterday morning about 9:30, after a rear tire became overheated and burst into flames and ignited the body. The two Cornwells Heights fire companies were called and the blaze was quickly extinguished.

Part of the rear structure of the body and the paint on one side of the truck was slightly damaged. The tire was completely ruined. The blaze broke out as the truck was traveling east on the Bristol Pike, opposite Christ Church, Eddington. The truck is owned by one of the large trucking concerns.

RURAL NEEDS DISCUSSED BY MIDDLETOWN GRANGE

Agree on Good Roads as The Greatest Need, With Electricity Close Second

PLAN EXHIBIT FOR FAIR

LANGHORNE, Aug. 14.—A discussion as to the rural needs interested members of the Middletown Grange, in meeting at the Friends' school house, Wednesday evening, with a decision being reached that good roads were one of the major needs, and likewise electricity.

Grange members also discussed benefits to be derived from Grange membership, with the farmers being thus helped to better solve their problems.

Attendance at the session was small. The business meeting was featured by committee reports. An exhibit is planned by the Grange for Doylestown Fair this year. A committee is to be named in charge of such, such appointment to be made at the meeting on August 26th.

The picnic committee also submitted its report, this revealing that all of the members and friends attending had a very pleasant time. Mention was made of the excellent work on the part of Mrs. Hugh B. Webster and Mrs. Anna Johnson toward making the outing a success.

Announcement was made of the Fall meeting of Lower Bucks and Phila. Pomona Grange, No. 22, to be held in the Carversville Christian Church on Wednesday, September 2nd. Delegates will be appointed at the meeting in two weeks.

In the absence of the lecturer, Mrs. Anna Johnson, who is attending the Middle Atlantic States Lecturers' Conference at College Park, Md., the program Wednesday was in charge of Mrs. May Newbold. During that time one of the members gave a list of the policies which the National Grange opposes and favors.

Following a reading by Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, Edwin Ridge and several other members told what they would like to see the grange accomplish in the future. These included a larger enrollment of farmers in the community and better attendance at the meetings.

Bertha Stradling gave a reading, "The Perfect Guest."

Woman Lands A 24-Pound Turtle; Four-Ounce Rod

Landing a 24-pound snapping turtle with a 12-pound test fly line attached to a four-ounce pole, is the distinction accorded to a woman resident of Washington Crossing, Mrs. Loretta A. Howerly.

The fine specimen of a snapper is an unusual size to catch in the waters of the Delaware River of the Washington Crossing section, it is claimed, but Mrs. Howerly, with the aid of her husband, has provided material fit for Robert Ripley's cartoons.

The turtle is to be presented to the Bristol Lodge, No. 970, B. P. O. Elks. The local Elks are thus assured of some fine creamed snapper within the next few days.

Mr. Howerly states that he and his wife were in a small duck boat fishing for wall-eyed pike, when Mrs. Howerly had a heavy strike. Having some difficulty with the big haul, owing to the light pole and line, the two feared they would never land the turtle, but after a half hour's effort were enabled to get it securely in the boat.

Mr. Howerly aided in the formation of the Penns Manor Club a few years ago.

SWEATING OUT TAXES

(New York American, August 4, 1936)

Taxes are STILL PAID in "the sweat of the man who labors."

Mr. Roosevelt, as a candidate for the Presidency in 1932, stressed that fact in THOSE WORDS.

In the first three years of his Presidential term, Mr. Roosevelt's administration added twelve billion dollars to the national debt.

This will call for a LOT OF SWEATING by the man who labors.

There will be no backing down on these debts. THEY WILL HAVE TO BE PAID, largely by various forms of taxation against the wage earners.

The "man who labors" cannot get out from under the government debts already contracted, but he can insist that A HALT BE CALLED in contracting new debts.

If the rate of debt increase of the last three years should be continued for the period of another Presidential term, American wage earners will be WORKING FOR THE TAX COLLECTOR.

The only way to STOP SPENDING is to THROW OUT THE SPENDERS.

DISCHARGE JOHN KLEIN FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE

Charged With Involuntary Manslaughter; Kintnersville Man Lost His Life

SEVERAL WITNESSES

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 14.—At a hearing before Justice of the Peace W. Carlisle Hobensack, John F. Klein, of Garth avenue, Trenton R. D. 1, charged with involuntary manslaughter, was discharged for want of sufficient evidence to hold him for court.

Klein was driving a Fisher Baking Company truck from Trenton, N. J., on the morning of June 19, on a highway near Upper Black Eddy, Nockamixon township, when a pleasure car driven by George Burger, of near Kintnersville, crashed into the truck.

Both Klein and Burger were injured and rushed to the Easton hospital, where Burger died a short time after being admitted.

In the absence of Corporal William Engle, of the Doylestown sub-station of State Highway Patrol, who investigated the case, Patrolman Stable testified from Corporal Engle's records.

The defendant Klein testified that he saw the pleasure car approaching him at a very high rate of speed and on the wrong side of the highway. Klein said that he slowed down his truck and stopped on the side of the highway, but that Burger continued straight at him and crashed into the truck.

Several other witnesses testified, all indicating that the defendant was not to blame. Klein was represented at the hearing by Howard I. James, of Bristol. Both drivers, it was also testified, had a clear vision for a distance of 500 feet.

20,000 See Youth Hanged

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 14.—Two hundred of the 20,000 people who saw Rainey Bethea, a hanged 22-year-old negro boy, hanged at dawn here today, swarmed like carrion over the gallows, while his body was still suspended through the trap. They tore the hood over his frightened face for souvenirs, and yelled.

Bethea dropped to his death at 5:28 a. m. before 20,000 people. Fans packed every available space to see the hanging, attired in white seersucker suits, spring the trap.

With true Southern chivalry, Arthur "Dare Devil Dick" Hash, former Louisville police superintendent, pinch-hit for the lady sheriff, Mrs. Florence Thompson, of Davies County, who had intimated up to the last, that she would be at the wheel for Rainey's last jaunt.

SERVICE CLUBS ENJOY PICNIC, LANDRETH LAWN

Games and Contests Participated In by Exchangeites and Rotarians

DR. WEBB PRESIDES

More than 50 members of the Bristol Exchange and Rotary clubs met on the lawn of David Landreth from four to eight p. m. yesterday for a combined picnic and outing. Dr. H. Doyle Webb, president of the Rotary club, presided.

Games and contests were enjoyed by members of the outing, but reports have been coming in that some of the members of both clubs switched affiliations during the contests. A committee was formed by responsible members to investigate the matter after it was rumored that members of the Exchange club were playing on the side of the Rotary, and vice versa. In the scheduled baseball game, the final score was said to be in the neighborhood of 26 and three-quarters for the Rotary to 25 and five-eighths for the Exchange, but there appears to be some question as to the accuracy of this score.

In the tennis matches the final score was reported to be 18-0, 1-0, 0-0, with the Rotary's team of "Hamp" Morris and Lester Thorpe victorious over the Exchange combination of MacArthur and Snyder. Here again, rumors have it that the judge, referee and umpire, appointed for the matches were in the pay of the Rotarians.

Due to questionable fractions of inches in the quilt contest, Horace Schmidt was declared the winner over Les Helwig by a score of 2-1, after a two-hour battle.

One of the special features on the program was the corn eating contest. Here a time limit of 15 minutes was set and at the opening gun 31 contestants began to chew away. Two contestants outdistanced all the other competitors after the first three minutes of the grind. It is believed that the final score was 42 ears for Roy Fry, the winner, who was closely followed by the runner-up, Les Shoemaker with a grand total of 41 and nine-tenths ears claimed. Spectators were heard to murmur with anxiety lest the supply run out after watching these two gladiators for some eight or ten minutes.

The catering service was managed by a local restaurateur. The meal was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present; and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Landreth, made the outing one of the best enjoyed by the local clubs this year.

YOUTH IS ELECTROCUTED AS HE HANDLES A LAMP

Robert J. Turner, Siles, Meets Death in Most Peculiar Manner

SEATED ON RADIATOR

SILES, Aug. 14.—An 18-year-old youth was accidentally electrocuted at his home yesterday, meeting death in a most peculiar manner.

The victim: Robert John Turner, Bristol Road. The young man, it is claimed, picked up an electric lamp as he was seated on a radiator in his parents' residence. He slumped to the floor as the death-dealing volts rushed through his body.

A Richboro physician was summoned, but efforts to save young Turner's life were of no avail.

Turner is the son of Albert and Anna Marie Turner (nee Seiber). In addition to his parents, Robert is survived by a younger brother, Edward.

Dr. James Lawler, deputy coroner of Bucks County, was summoned, and issued a certificate stating death was due to accidental electrocution.

The young man, victim of such an unusual accident, graduated in June from Bensalem Township high school.

EXONERATE LYCZAK IN THE DEATH OF A BURLINGTON YOUTH

Fatal Accident Occurred At Green Lane Early On The Morning of July 26th

INQUEST YESTERDAY

Officer Claims Accident Might Have Been Caused By Tire "Blow-Out"

A coroner's jury, gathering in the municipal building here yesterday, exonerated Sigmund Lyczak, driver of a car which crashed near the Green Lane intersection, fatally injuring one of the occupants, Charles Comorsky, of all blame for the accident.

Charles Comorsky, one of the four Burlington residents injured when the machine crashed into a tree near Green Lane early Sunday morning, July 26, died two days later without regaining consciousness.

Testimony at the hearing, at which Bucks County Coroner H. Clayton Moyer presided, indicated that the accident was probably due to a tire blow-out.

Deputy Coroner James P. Lawler, Bristol, was the first witness called to testify. He stated that he was called to view the body of Comorsky at the Harriman Hospital and said that death was due to a skull fracture. Dr. Lawler also said that Comorsky suffered multiple fractures of the thigh and leg.

Patrolman George Pollard of the local police department testified that he was called to the scene of the accident about 1:45 on the morning of July 26. When he arrived the victims were already on their way to the Harriman Hospital. Pollard then went to the hospital and said that he found the driver, Lyczak, sober. Pollard said that it was probable that the accident resulted from a blow-out.

Patrolman Charles Nicol, who aided Pollard in viewing the scene of the accident, said that it was quite possible that the accident was caused by a blown-out tire. He said that when he examined the car the tire on the front was flat.

Sigmund Lyczak, the last witness called, and the driver of the car, said that the car was in perfect mechanical condition and that the tire blew out and caused the car to swerve from the road and hit a hole and then crash into the tree. The defendant testified that he was driving about 40 miles per hour and when questioned as to whether he had been drinking, strongly denied that he had. Lyczak also said that his lights were in good condition. The defendant had been driving about five months.

Lyczak, who is 20, lives at 404 Franklin street, Burlington. He has been employed in a foundry there. At the inquest yesterday the defendant appeared fairly well recovered from the injuries he received in the accident. He suffered a compound fracture of the lower jaw and other minor injuries. Lyczak did, however, have difficulty in talking when he was on the stand.

Comorsky, who was 17, and resided on Elm avenue, Burlington, was returning with the group from a taproom in Edgely, where they had been furnishing the music, when the accident occurred.

Stanley Spiewak, who was riding in the back seat with the musical instruments, received minor cuts and bruises and was discharged from the hospital. Jenny Urbanik, who was riding with Comorsky and Lyczak on the front seat, suffered a broken hand and other injuries.

The jurymen were: John Y. Turner, foreman; Evan B. Vandegrift, Frank Londerbough, Ralph Ratcliffe, William H. H. Fine, and Garwood Bishop.

IT ALL DEPENDS

"The activity of a journalist has meaning only if he acquaints himself with all the happenings in a country and gets to know all the tendencies, whether they be friendly or hostile to the government," Der Angriff, Nazi newspaper, recently remarked editorially.

And that authoritative Berlin journal added a reminder to countries where there are foreign journalists that "unwritten laws of international courtesy demand patience to the utmost limit."

Is this to be interpreted as notice of a more liberal attitude on the part of the Nazi government toward truthful and objective reporting of its activities? The answer is to be found on the occasion on which Der Angriff's editorial was read aloud to members of the Foreign Press Association in Berlin by that organization's American president, Louis P. Lochner.

The occasion was a farewell luncheon in honor of a Czechoslovak correspondent who had been expelled from Germany because of articles which he had written for his Prague newspaper. The luncheon took place on the same day that marked the beginning of a life sentence of life imprisonment for Walter Schverferger, German editor, who had shown a foreign correspondent a copy of the instructions issued to German newspapers by the ministry of propaganda.

Mr. Lochner explained to his hearers that Der Angriff's editorial was published in connection with recent expulsion of a Nazi correspondent from Rumania.

THE RAIN COUNTS

In May the backyard gardener is a man of lusty faith. He spades and hoes and rakes and visualizes big red tomatoes and juicy ears of green corn and verdant salad stuff.

Comes August and the realization that weeds have made better progress than lettuce. And then there is the sudden remembrance that 10 days have elapsed since the last rain and that one didn't amount to much.

Never mind. There is the garden hose.

And after dinner in the cool of the evening the garden gets a refreshing sprinkling. And next day faith shrivels with the curling of the sweet corn leaves. Why doesn't the garden respond? It was wet down last night and the night before.

Answers the expert who has been measuring effects of showers: An inch of rainfall for a quarter-acre garden brings out the skies about 7,000 gallons of water, the weight of which would be approximately 27 tons!

What's the use! Reel up the garden hose!

Because Shirley Temple said "dam Yankee" on the screen, it is going to take till Labor Day to weed that adjective out of the younger American lexicon.

By virtue of the fact that she has never fallen in love, she says, a Latin-American lady has managed to live 120 years. And a long 120 years at that!

Great areas of the Western range have been burned over by drought, but we were warned about it in the song—"and the sky is not cloudy all day."

"GLITTERING GIRL"

by MAY CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS

Having struck oil, the quaint Jake Tysons leave their Texas home to introduce their lovely daughter, Vernon (called "Maggie" back home), to New York society with the aid of their socially prominent, though impoverished cousin, the Rushingtons. Sadie Tyson hopes for a brilliant match for her daughter, but Vernon's thoughts are with Terry Shannon, a young engineer she met on the train. Nan Rushington—Vernon's 18-year-old, ultra-modern cousin—hopes to better her own financial status by being nice to the Tysons. Nan becomes the loss of her father's fortune which prevents her from financing the divorce of her latest crush, "Sugar" Sarraill. Had Nan's mother been alive she, in all probability, would not have led such a giddy life. Her father was too taken up with his business worries to bother with Nan's escapades, although he disapproved of her gay career. Nan takes Vernon to have her hair hennaed and a complete beauty treatment. Vernon emerges a vision of loveliness. "You've got to glitter! If you don't register at the start—you're finished before you've begun!" stressed Nan. And "glitter" Vernon certainly did! The two girls lunch at the swanky Fizzly Club where Vernon makes a pretense of drinking her first dry martini—a bitter potion in her opinion. Nan's "Sugar" arrives and his eyes had a smouldering expression as they beheld Vernon. Mrs. Sarraill appears and, ignoring Nan, she tells "Sugar" that her father has some business to discuss with him. Everyone grinned at Nan's discomfiture. Returning to her hotel, The Splendide, Vernon again meets Terry. She introduces Nan, who gives Terry her best comely-hitherish look but his gaze is all for Vernon. Nan began to think that the error in having this girl from Texas beautified.

CHAPTER IX

A few minutes later Vernon and she sat facing Terry Shannon at a tiny table on the balcony of the Hungarian Room. Nan chattered incessantly. She wanted him to understand what an important person she was, socially. Vernon couldn't get a word in edgewise. But Terry Shannon's darkly blue eyes (extraordinarily handsome and devilish they were!) Nan decided) were turned on Vernon. "Like her new shade of hair? I took her to Bonaire's and got her all dolled up." There was catnissness behind the remark, for Nan was growing exasperated. "I don't see much change in Miss Tyson at all. She looked good to me from the start." His eyes smiled at Vernon as though he greatly admired her. "If I could only get alone with him, I'd register—I'd make him fall for me!" thought Nan. She suggested they dance, but Terry claimed he was out of practice. She tried a new tack. Vernon had no escort for the Suydam's party this evening, and he simply must accompany them? Nan would guarantee that he would have a perfectly dew-vine time, for all the "young crowd" would be there—the swift ones. "Do you mean Chisholm Suydam who used to go to Yale?" asked Terry lazily. "I know him. But I haven't seen him in at least a couple of years," he added non-committally. "Don't urge him, Nan," said Vernon, her eyes twinkling. "He assured me on the train that he simply loathes parties—especially the kind on Park Avenue." "But not the Suydam kind," persisted Nan. "They're absolutely informal. Everyone can do exactly as they please. You can even go to bed and sleep right through them if you want to." The Suydam pennouse! She had taken a fancy to this handsome Terry, and must have her opportunity with him—the quicker the better! Vernon kept silent. Her thoughts had gone back to last night, to their prolonged and fascinating conversation on the train. If he really wanted to cultivate her friendship, he was now up to him.

But with all her heart she hoped he would escort her. She hoped that all the parties would be simply dotted with this Terry Shannon.

Up in the Tysons' apartment, some time later, Vernon stood before her mother in the beautiful sea-green evening dress.

"It certainly shows an awful lot of you, Maggie Tyson, and it's a simply shocking price! But if your cousin says it's the right style, I'm sure I won't stand in your way." Mrs. Tyson was nettled that neither she nor Jake had been invited by Nan to the Suydam party.

Not that Jake wanted to go. He only wanted peace, and his pipe, and the fireside. Evening clothes he

The penthouse was an elaborate affair, with conservatories and a little pain court, and a fountain. There was a long open-air terrace, too, with an enchanting view of Central Park and the reservoir.

What a place for romance! thought Vernon. While she was meeting all the new people her thoughts were incessantly on Terry Shannon. That look in his fine eyes as they had rested on her all through tea in the Hungarian Room this wonderful afternoon!

It disturbed her that he had not jumped at the chance of accompanying her tonight to the party, however.

If he had really felt as she felt, he would have seized at once on absolutely loathed. But she'd break him of that dislike here in New York, where everyone who was anyone wore their tuxedos in the evening.

The doorbell rang. A bellboy handed in a white card-board box, addressed to Miss Tyson. A cascade of fragrant gardenias was revealed, creamy-white against shiny green leaves.

"Just right for my dress. How beautiful!" breathed Vernon. With all her heart she hoped they were from "him". But there was no name nor message. And he had not said definitely whether or not he would be at the Suydams this evening!

Just then Nan arrived with a couple of reporters. Just as well get her own picture in the papers! Common the Tysons undoubtedly were, but they were rich, and she was stony-broke! She'd guide the interviewing into the right channel.

It was an exaggerated account of the Tyson millions she contrived to whisper to the men. She shone in the reflected glory of innumerable dollars!

When the two girls were speeding up Park Avenue in a taxi—for her own escort had annoyingly failed to materialize—Nan said triumphantly: "Terry Shannon took me home after you left us. Wasn't that sweet of him?" She broke off, her blue eyes resting on the gardenias. "Say, where did you get them?"

"They came just before you arrived—with no card or anything."

"Huh? Probably from him." Nan looked crestfallen for a second. "You'll have to train him to send you orchids. They're much more expensive than just gardenias! Sugar sent me these!" On her shoulder were luscious purple the opportunity offered by Nan that he escort her . . .

It disturbed her that Nan so evidently liked him—for both instinct and observation told Vernon that Nan was naturally predatory . . .

She was ashamed of criticizing Nan, even to herself, when Nan had been so sweet to her, taking her around, and introducing her everywhere.

Nan was gay and witty and pretty—au fait with Park Avenue ways—while Vernon felt herself a raw girl from the country.

She'd learn. Of course she would. She'd fling off this gaucherie.

She gave herself an angry little shake. A great mirror in the hall told her she was as lovely as anybody!

Nan had wrought this metamorphosis. Vernon was grateful to her cousin. Thrilling to have people look at her, curiously, admiringly, in the sea-green gown!

She danced with a brother of the host and thereafter he led her into the conservatory. Comfortable wicker chairs and swing couches were set here and there amid the palms and greenery.

Over a hedge of boxwood she suddenly heard a girl exclaim, eagerly: "Here comes Terry Shannon! Isn't he marvelous-looking?"

"I'll say he is," commented another feminine voice, "but he's married now, to Alma What's-her-name—that girl with the family tree as long as your arm—"

Said Number One: "Not married, but engaged to her. She's down in Hot Springs now. I expect she'll be right back to join him. Her mother told me they were to be married very soon."

DINNER FOR SIX EASILY PREPARED

AUGUST DINNERS CAN BE PREPARED WITH GREAT EASE

Concentrate on Informal Living and Simple Foods for Summer

Dear Friends in Bristol:

Here are two ways of cutting down on the amount of time spent in the kitchen during the summer and both are good. You may prefer to start early in the day, prepare the vegetables and meats ready for cooking, then place in the refrigerator ready to be cooked in the evening. Or you may prefer to select foods that are easily and quickly prepared. In my opinion, a combination of the two methods is most satisfactory.

Menus must always be the first consideration and these are governed by the amount to be spent on food, and the preference of the family. Well seasoned foods, simple, and attractively served, however, have a universal appeal.

Recipes for Dinners

Tomato Juice Cocktail

Open a large can of tomatoes and press through a sieve. In this way all of the goodness of the tomato goes into the cocktail. Pour into a covered jar. Grate into a bowl two stalks of celery and squeeze in the juice of a lemon. Press the two through a sieve and add to the tomato juice. Further season with Worcestershire Sauce, salt and two sprigs of parsley. This cocktail seasoned with the fresh celery is most appetizing.

Crystal Apple Rings

Four tablespoons shortening, two tablespoons sugar, four large, tart apples, cored and sliced one-half inch thick.

Melt the shortening in a frying pan, add sugar and stir until slightly caramelized. Add the apple rings and saute until golden brown on both sides.

Pineapple slices, pear halves, sliced cooked potatoes and yams; orange sections and bananas may be cooked in the same way. The shortening and sugar forms a delicate glaze which enhances both appearance and flavor.

Ham Loaf

One pound ham, one pound fresh pork, one clove of garlic, one small onion, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon minced parsley, one egg white, one-third cup top milk, one cup soft bread crumbs.

Put through the meat grinder the ham, pork, onion, and garlic. Soften the bread crumbs in the milk and add seasonings. Combine the two mixtures and fold in the egg white that has been beaten stiff. Grease a bread pan well and press in the ham mixture. Bake in a 325 degree oven for about an hour. This loaf is delicious served either hot or cold.

Deep Dish Blueberry Pie

One quart of blueberries, two and one-half tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, two-thirds cup granulated sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-half cup brown sugar, firmly packed; one tablespoon butter.

Mix blueberries, tapioca, granulated sugar, salt and lemon juice and let stand while pastry is being made. For pastry use recipe for a one-crust pie. Arrange blueberries in baking dish that has been well-greased. Dot with butter. Roll dough one-fourth inch thick and a size to cover baking dish, allowing one inch all round. Fold in half, cut several one-half inch slits in fold. Place pastry over blueberries in baking dish, unfold, turn edge under and press on rim all around dish. Bake in a hot oven of 425 degrees F. for thirty-five to forty-five minutes.

Bran Muffins

One cup flour, one cup bran, four teaspoons baking powder, four tablespoons brown sugar, two eggs, one and one-fourth cups milk, four tablespoons shortening, and one-half teaspoon salt.

Blend the shortening; unbeaten egg, salt and brown sugar. Sift together the flour and baking powder, combine with the bran that is never sifted. Add alternately the dry ingredients and the milk to the shortening mixture. Bake in well greased muffin tins in an oven at 400 degrees F. for ten to fifteen minutes. Makes eight large muffins.

Vanilla Ice Cream

(To be frozen in Hand Freezer)

Two cups scalded milk, one tablespoon flour, one cup sugar, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one quart of rich milk or one pint milk and one pint cream, two tablespoons vanilla.

Mix flour, sugar, salt and eggs slightly beaten with scalded milk. Cook over very low heat or in top of double boiler for ten minutes, stirring constantly. Cool and add rich milk or vanilla. Freeze.

PLEA IS MADE FOR SAFETY IN THE HOME; SUGGESTIONS GIVEN

By RHANDEA A. ARMSTRONG

Home Economics Representative

Homemaking seems to be a dangerous occupation. The hazards of the home have been steadily increasing. Today various organizations are making investigations and issuing material on safety in the household. The objective is to correct or eliminate many of the hazards which are the result of carelessness or taking chances.

How many of you are guilty of standing on a rocker or on a pile of books in a chair or perhaps on an unstable table while putting up curtains or hanging a picture? Yes, perhaps you have done this without mishap, but many have not, for falls top the list of home accidents. Many of these have resulted in permanent injury; others have caused death, sometimes after painful suffering. It does not pay to take chances. There are better ways.

A strong, sturdy step-ladder is an essential piece of household equipment. For the long reach upward, take time to get the ladder and use it properly. Accidents may result when using the step-ladder unless the cross brace is securely pulled down.

Another precaution is to stand on the ladder so that you work toward the front instead of sidewise. Reaching sidewise often unbalances the weight.

But one does not need to climb in order to fall. Small scatter rugs on highly polished floors cause many falls.

Some persons seem to be unfortunate in falling, especially older people. These older folks have more brittle bones, and serious breaks may result from the falls. Rugs or obstacles which are likely to trip folks into falling should be kept off the floor, for safety.

All members of the family can cooperate in a safety campaign in the home. Children, especially, can share responsibility by keeping their toys and playthings from the paths of travel. Good order and systematic arrangement will do much to prevent accidents.

Exercising daily care may save expensive doctor bills, prevent painful injuries or permanent crippling, and perhaps prolong a life.

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT WHEN BUYING HOSIERY

By Rhondena A. Armstrong

(Home Economics Representative)

Nowadays "stockings" mean silk stockings, and many are the complaints we hear from the wearers: "I spend so much for stockings and get so little wear from them." "How can you tell when you are buying good stockings?"

Few women realize that they are asking for two opposite qualities in the same pair of stockings. They want sheer hose and at the same time they want good wearing qualities. We often notice reference to two-thread or seven-thread hose. Two-thread hose are the sheer chiffon type, a six-thread hose is a light service weight. A seven-thread hose is one usually referred to as service chiffon, one which gives the quality of sheerness combined with reasonable service.

There are two methods of knitting hose—the circular knit, used for men's socks and children's hose, and the full fashioned knit, which makes a more shapely stocking. By the latter method the stocking is knit flat, and the two selvages are sewed together. Most women's hose are knit in this manner. The "full fashion" marks at the back show where the stitches have been knit off in shaping the leg. Examine a stocking for the seam up the back; notice that this seam is left open on the wrong side of the hem. Circular knit hose are sometimes pressed to give the appearance of a full fashioned hose, but they do not retain their shape after washing. The full fashioned hose also give a better fitting foot.

The gauge refers to the number of needles used in knitting 1½ inches in the width of the stocking. From 42 to 48 gauge is the usual fineness. A two-thread 48 gauge means a sheer hose made of fine thread.

Silk loses its elasticity and therefore its wearing quality with age. Therefore stockings which have been laid away for a long time, either in the store or at home, will not wear well.

In buying hose, a general rule is to buy them three sizes larger than your shoe size. Another is to buy them one inch longer than your foot. Hose should not be short in the feet.

The top of a stocking should be elastic enough to stretch to 11 to 13 inches. From the heel across to the instep the stockings should stretch to seven inches. The leg is knit in lengths from 29 to 36 inches and 31 inches is average. Too long a stocking will wrinkle around the instep.

Proper care prolongs the life of hose. They should be washed after each wearing in lukewarm water. Use only mild soap, and do not rub the soap on the hose. Rinse thoroughly, hang them up straight, and dry away from direct heat. Darn worn spots before they wear into holes.

It is a good plan to buy two or more pairs of the same shade at the same time. A record of time of purchase, brand, and length of service is helpful in purchasing new hose.

OPPONENTS COMPLETELY ROUTED BY BRISTOLIANS

In a whirlwind flash of speed and clever tennis "Herb" Lawrence and Nelson Green last evening continued their march toward the Trenton City doubles championship by completely routing their opponents in two straight sets. Games were played on the Cadwalader Park courts, Trenton, N. J.

The Bristolians were never headed and displayed none of the sluggishness which was prevalent in the earlier matches of the series, and won easily from Traver and Ehret, 6-0, 6-0, on the Cadwalader Courts last evening.

The barrage of shots that Lawrence and Green hammered out were too much for their opponents and they could not effectively return them. Ehret fell at the beginning of the second set and severely injured his knee, but the injury probably had little effect on the outcome.

By virtue of this latest victory the Bristolians win the right to play in the semi-final round tonight when they meet Charles and Harlan Whitehead at 6:30 p. m. on the Cadwalader Courts.

Last evening's matches also saw the defending champions annex their matches by favorable margins. The diminutive Abbie Rednor and Leon Levy still appear threats in defending their championship won last year when they won the right to play in the semi-finals by defeating Steve Kramer and Billie Collier in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

The City champions displayed both clever court strategy and brilliant stroking as they marched to victory.

ST. ANN'S OR HIBOES TO BE ELIMINATED TONIGHT

Either St. Ann's A. A. or the Hibernians will be eliminated from the second-half race of the Bristol Twilight League tonight as the two clubs come together on Landreth's field. At the present time the Saints boast of a winning streak which has reached eight straight games.

The Odd Fellows are resting in first place and have completed their scheduled games. St. Ann's is second with eight wins and two defeats. The Hibos come third with seven and two. The Oddies have won ten and lost two and are sure of at least a deadlock for first place. A St. Ann's victory tonight will enable them to meet the Oddies for the second-half crown.

The opposing hillmen for the battle will be Dave Ennis, the southpaw twirler, for the Hibos, and "Spike" Scordia, for the Wood Streeters. Ennis has a knack of beating the Saints and seems to have their number. It was Scordia who twirled the Purple and Gold to a 4-4 deadlock over the Hibos earlier in the season.

Youngest Diving Star Winner at Olympics

Miss Marjorie Gestring, 13, of Los Angeles, led a one-two-three sweep for the U. S. women Olympic springboard artists at Berlin. She is shown in mid-air executing one of the graceful dives which gained her a place on the team.

After the game there will be an important meeting of the loop in the office of D. Landreth Seed Company.

EDITORIAL WOES TOLD IN PROSE

(By One Who Knows)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 11—(INS)—Under the heading, "The Joy of Being An Editor," the Hoosier Motorist recently jested, as follows: "Getting out this little paper is no picnic.

"If we print jokes, people say we are silly.

"If we don't, they say we are too serious.

"If we clip things from other magazines, we are too lazy to write them ourselves.

"If we don't, we are too fond of our own stuff.

"If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius.

"If we print them, the magazine is filled with junk.

"Like as not, someone will say we swiped this from some other magazine."

—WE DID."

OWENS TO START FIFTH YEAR AS GRID COACH

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(INS)—Steve Owen, coach of the New York Football Giants, will be starting his fifth season as tutor of the Eastern professional gridiron champions when he launches practice for a record making squad at the Blue Hill C. C. at Orangeburg, N. Y., August 17.

Owen has been one of the most successful coaches in the National league. His team won the League title and the Ed Thorp Memorial Trophy in 1934, and the Eastern crown for the past three seasons, during which time 19 of 22 games were won at the Polo Grounds and 24 out of 42 against circuit competition.

Owen graduated from the playing ranks to coaching, just as did Curley Lambeau of Green Bay, George Halas of the Chicago Bears, Milan Creighton of the Cardinals and Ray Flaherty of Boston. He attended Phillips University in Oklahoma where he also wrestled and played baseball. He has wrestled some of the best in the country before he came East in 1926 to join the Giants. He captained the 1927 team which won the title and allowed opponents only 20 points in 12 games.

One of his brief stays away from football found him as boss of the canvas men with Charley Pyle's Bunton Derby. He is now 34 years of age and although his family now lives in Kinsley, Kan., he came originally from Oklahoma. He was married last fall at the end of the season. It was on his trip home after the season that he uncovered many of the recruits who will be seeking recognition on August 17 when the squad goes to camp.

Mrs. Michael Patrick and daughter, Eleanor and sons, Robert and William, Wilson avenue, have been spending the past week in Guttenberg, N. J., visiting relatives.

HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood takes care of its own. The 18-year-old son of the late Alan Crosland has been given a job at Warner Brothers, where his director father was in the middle of a picture when a tragic automobile accident cut short his career. He has a small job, but one that puts him in contact with all departments of production. It is his ambition some day to be a director like his dad.

A star's birthday means work for the postmaster. Robert Taylor, when he celebrated his anniversary, got five sacks of mail, including letters from 37 states, a large number from Europe, two from South America and one from Australia. Not to mention many packages.

But please do not send gifts of food to the stars. Fear of cranks causes studios to destroy them all. The only alternative would be to hire a staff of chemists to analyze the foodstuffs.

An example of how much waste results from this practice of the fans. In a magazine article recently, Olivia de Havilland mentioned fruit cake as one of her favorite delicacies. To date, Warner Brothers have had to destroy 16 large cakes.

The amount of fruit, candy and jam that suffers the same fate in Hollywood each week would stock a store.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Mrs. C. H. Chippen, Newark: Mrs. Wallace Berry, I am happy to say, is much improved from her heart ailment. So much so, in fact, that she is now going to gym classes to drop the pounds she put on during the forced inactivity of her long illness.

"Suzy" didn't get so much applause from the critics, but the picture is making money and Jean Harlow likes it well enough to fly a print over to Catalina to show to her mother. It was her way of spending a half day off from "Labeled Lady". She chartered a plane for the trip.

Speaking of flying, Herbert Marshall's trip to England may set a record. As soon as "The Portrait of a Rebel" is finished, he plans to fly east and take passage on the Hindenburg, which would put him in Croydon five days after he leaves the screen capital. Then, after a five-day stay in England, he hopes to return the same route.

A swell trick if he does it! It will mean he could be back in Hollywood within 15 days.

Here and There in Hollywood... The Ann Sothorn-Roger Pryor marriage is expected any time, but she was at the Vendome recently with Jacques Thery, who used to be attentive to Julie Haydon... Clark Gable's white Ford (the one Carole Lombard gave him) got to be so well known he has had to give it a coat of black paint... The Charles Grapewins celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary recently...

She was Anna Chance, a stage and vaudeville well-known... Eleanor Whitney lost seven pounds during her recent illness and now is too slender even for a size 10 dress.

Fred MacMurray, on the other hand, has gained seven or eight pounds. Marriage agrees with him... Eddie Cantor and Bobby Breen did final rehearsals for their San Francisco personal appearance engagement over a short wave hookup. Cantor was in Hollywood and Bobby was in a boy's camp in the High Sierras... Patricia Ellis has joined the Malibu colony for the summer... And Paramount are paying Ida Lupino a nice compliment by redecorating her dressing room.

Today's Puzzle: What well-known star included 16 dozen pairs of false eyelashes among her luggage on a recent trip?
